Synopsis:

Notorious, serial killer Jack Nichols is led to his sentencing hearing only to be confronted by his previous victims and the two detectives who tracked him down.

Detectives Paul and Vincent Francesco have made it their mission to hunt down the nation's worst serial offenders and Jack Nichols was their hardest case. As they watch the proceedings they soon find this case is far from over... It's just beginning...

Jack's final ride to incarceration turns out to be his ticket to freedom. In a daring, daylight escape, Jack is freed by his brothers...

Hiding deep in the woods Jack, his brothers and a 'wannabe', come across a group of young campers. The game of death begins as Jack and the others hunt down the campers; torturing and killing them, one by one.

However, one of the campers they left for dead comes back to hunt the hunters. The tables have turned.

Paul and Vincent, race against time. They need to catch Jack and his psychotic brothers before the body count gets higher. They use all their experience and know how. Not only to catch the villains but keep from becoming villains themselves...

Enjoy this romp through the underside of sanity and the abyss of the human mind..

As you stare, watch out. It may stare back at you...
